

Papua New Guinea to shine bright at the World Indigenous Business Forum October 24-26, 2023: Defying Negativity and Travel Advisories

Introduction

Papua New Guinea (PNG), a land of stunning landscapes, diverse cultures, and unique traditions, has often been a subject of travel advisories cautioning against visiting due to safety concerns. However, despite these odds, Port Moresby will take stage at the World Indigenous Business Forum (WIBF), showcasing its resilience, rich heritage, and the potential for economic growth in the region.

Challenges Surrounding PNG

Over the years, PNG has faced challenging perceptions from the international community, largely driven by travel advisories highlighting safety issues and political instability. These warnings, while essential for travelers' safety, often overshadow the nation's beauty, culture, and the incredible potential it holds.

World Indigenous Business Forum (WIBF)

In the midst of these challenges, PNG will change the minds of global business leaders at the upcoming World Indigenous Business Forum, turning the spotlight on the nation's capacity to overcome adversity and emerge as a vibrant hub for Indigenous business and partnerships. The forum brings together Indigenous entrepreneurs, leaders, and innovators from around the world and provides an excellent platform for PNG to rewrite its narrative.

Highlighting Indigenous Success

One of the key focuses of the WIBF is to shed light on indigenous success stories from PNG and other global nations. Participants share their journeys, challenges, and triumphs, demonstrating how indigenous communities can harness their unique strengths and resources to create sustainable businesses. The WIBF is intended to Connect, Share and Inspire!

PNG's Rich Cultural Heritage

The forum will present PNG's rich cultural heritage, with traditional dances, art exhibitions, and storytelling sessions that allows attendees to immerse themselves in the nation's vibrant culture. These experiences serve as a testament to the resilience of PNG's indigenous communities and their commitment to preserving their heritage.

Economic Opportunities in PNG

Beyond cultural celebrations, the WIBF explores the economic potential of PNG. Delegates will have the opportunity to engage with local entrepreneurs and government officials to learn about investment opportunities and business partnerships. By doing so, attendees will further discover that PNG is not just a land of tradition and culture but also a place ripe for economic growth and development.

Security Measures and Positivity

To address concerns about safety, PNG authorities will implement stringent security measures throughout the forum. The successful execution of the event is paramount to the nation's commitment to ensuring the safety of its visitors and fostering an environment conducive to business and cultural exchange.

The World Indigenous Business Forum held in Papua New Guinea is a testament to the nation's determination to rise above the negativity and travel advisories that have clouded its image in recent years. Through showcasing its rich cultural heritage, success stories, and economic potential, PNG will successfully positioned itself as a destination worth exploring for both business and cultural experiences.

As we move forward, it is crucial to remember that Papua New Guinea, like any other nation, has its challenges. However, it also possesses immense potential, and the WIBF served as a global path for Indigenous business to illuminate a path towards a brighter and more prosperous future for PNG and its Indigenous business leaders and communities.

For more information, please contact:

Barb Hambleton

Director, World Indigenous Business Forum

Cellphone. +1 4313570357

Email. barbhambleton@gmail.com

Address. 206 – 1075 Portage Avenue, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, R3G 0R8